Dinner Plate Size DAHLIAS

Dahlias are the largest and one of the most beautifully colored of all late summer and fall flowers. Dahlia growing has long been a hobby for many gardeners resulting in the development of blooms of tremendous size with fine form and color. Blooms nearly 12 inches across have been produced and are very effective as cut flowers. For largest flowers allow only one or two shoots to develop and when buds form, disbud leaving only one bud on each stem. Avoid planting Dahlias in too rich soil as they will produce more foliage than flowers. Give these Dahlias a little attention and you can grow brilliant flowers as large as dinner plates right in your own garden.

CITY OF HAARLEM—8B156—Our most popular and finest dark red Dahlia. Huge 8 to 10 inch flowers of glossy crimson are produced until frost on strong, stiff stems.
